proselytism

a load of shit.

1 —used to express the action or process of thinking
Let's get one question out of the way immediately ... :
does Spike Lee like to cause trouble? "Hmm," he says,
sighing. "Yeah, I guess you could call me an instigator."
— Patrick Demarchelier, Vogue, August 1990 As an undergraduate, I settled on history, and diplomatic history, because I had a really cool professor. I was thinking, Hmmm, I wonder how you get to be a diplomat? — Julia Wilkinson, Washington Post, 2 July 2013

It is some of the closest a close relative of "ok" or "I am following".
More like when someone is telling/informing you about something you'd say "hmmmm" to indicate that you're following what is being told.

there is no such thing as proselytism in Hinduism

Did Tooheys old 'It's good to be old' (or whatever it was) print ever run? I thought they were really good, but somewhat unlikely that they'd ever seen the light of day.

So the spelling is Dunkelweizen. I finally got around to brewing a trial batch. It isn't TO, in fact, it's better. I simply used a 1.7kg tin of Morgan's Golden Sheaf Wheat, 250g steeped Carafo Special II, 400g LDME, 750g dex. Gives 4.9% ABV, in the bottle. My steeping was inefficient, so the Carafo was amount really less than 200g. For the first 2 weeks the brew was sweet and chocolatey, like TO, but then the sharp wheat tartness cut in after 3 weeks. Carafo Special II is spot on for this brew. I suspect that Choc wheat would be a bit too mild. Special II is the right adjunct malt to clone TO, and the base should probably be a Munich-style barley.

3. The third element – three! – is along these lines: starting anew with Christ means not being afraid to go with him to the outskirts. Here I think of the story of Jonah, a really interesting figure, especially for these times of great change and uncertainty. Jonah is a devout man, with a tranquil and ordered life, which causes him to have a clear-cut way of seeing things and to judge everything and everyone accordingly. He has it all figured out: this is the truth! He is rigid! So, when the Lord called him and told him to go and preach to Nineveh, the great pagan city, Jonah doesn't like it. "Go there? But I have the whole truth here!" He doesn't like it. Nineveh is outside his comfort zone; it is on the outskirts of his world. So he escapes, he sets off for Spain; he runs away and boards a ship that will take him there. Go and re-read the Book of Jonah! It is short, but it is a very instructive parable, especially for those of us in the Church.
