The following links point to notes that I prepared for a January 2000 college production of Godot in the Pacific Northwest. They were primarily intended for student actors, but I attempted to include information that would be of interest to those who found the play an enigmatic or Beckettian enigma. In particular, I included a list of French or German plays that I had read or listened to (the whole thing) in MP3, France Culture broadcasts, Ecouter eux / L'Image / Malone Meurt / Le Depeupleur / Cindres / L'expulsi / Actes sans paroles / Bind. Très bon.

Recently my nephew Luke has been diagnosed with cancer. Actually one of the things I've been doing is looking for a few donations for cancer treatment in Philadelphia. I found a room in the Boston which has two other children and is having a tough time of things lately. My nephew Luke and his brother donated some new toys and my brother-in-law donated some. Tuesday the young boy and his Mom are coming to visit my sister so Luke can have a few boys to play with for a little while ( hoping he is feeling well). My sister asked me to spread the info about Luke to some of my friends. And having been around this site since Big Brother 2, I felt some people on this site may be interested in helping this young man out. <http://www.caringbridge.org/pa/lukeronco/> This is Luke's Web site and story of his treatment. Please forward this link to friends. I'll let you know how his visit goes with my nephews.

Some of the best material here is Beckett's dyspeptic book talk. He calls Darwin's 'Origin of Species' 'badly written catlap.' Some of Proust's work is 'a maudlin false teeth gobble-gobble discharge from a colic-afflicted belly.' Lawrence is 'a tedious kindling of damp.' ☒

Just in case you missed it: "BALDELLI - of North Providence, RI; formerly of Mansfield, June 26, 2003, Nino Baldelli, age 87. Brother of Lena Cutillo of Hesperia, CA. Also survived by many nieces and nephews and loving friends. Funeral arrangements and services were held privately through the Bolea-Amici Funeral Home, 115 North Main Street, Mansfield." Nino, who was a topic of conversation in this Guestbook, was remembered as the unique person he was.
